The amendment is as follows:

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “District of Columbia Chief Financial Officer Salary Home Rule Act”.

SEC. 2. PERMITTING DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA TO ESTABLISH RATE OF PAY OF CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER OF DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Section 424(b)(2)(E) of the District of Columbia Home Rule Act (sec. 1–204.24b(b)(5), D.C. Official Code) is amended to read as follows:

“(E) PAY.—The Chief Financial Officer shall be paid at the greater of—

“(i) a rate such that the total amount of compensation paid during any calendar year is equal to the limit on total pay which is applicable during such year under section 5307 of title 5, United States Code, to an employee described in section 5307(d) of such title; or

“(ii) a rate established in law by the District of Columbia, except that any rate established under this clause which is applicable to any individual serving as the Chief Financial Officer shall not be reduced during any period of such individual’s service as the Chief Financial Officer.”.

SUMMARY AND PURPOSE OF LEGISLATION

The District of Columbia Chief Financial Officer Salary Home Rule Act would establish a minimum rate of pay of the Chief Financial Officer (CFO) of the District of Columbia and authorize D.C. to establish a rate of pay of the CFO in law above the minimum rate.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

In 1995, Congress established the CFO to manage D.C.’s financial operations.¹ The District’s CFO is paid with local funds, not federal funds, but by law, the CFO may not be paid at a rate greater than the maximum rate established by Congress.² Congress has established various rates of pay of the CFO. Initially, Congress established a maximum rate of pay.³ Congress then established a fixed rate of pay.⁴ Most recently, Congress again established a maximum rate of pay.⁵

Congress does not establish a maximum rate of pay of any other D.C. employee. Under the D.C. Home Rule Act, the D.C. Council does not have the authority to change the maximum rate of pay of the CFO.⁶

The District of Columbia Chief Financial Officer Salary Home Rule Act was introduced at the request of D.C. to enable the District to recruit and retain the best candidates for CFO. A number of government chief financial officers are paid more than the District’s CFO on a real basis. For example, adjusted for the cost of living, the chief financial officer of the City of San Antonio is paid approximately 70% more than the District’s CFO.⁷

Congress established the CFO to be independent of the D.C. Mayor and Council. The CFO may only be removed for cause by the Mayor, subject to the approval of two-thirds of the members of the Council and a 30-day congressional review and comment period.⁸ The bill would preserve the independence of the CFO by establishing a minimum rate of pay, and, if the rate of pay is established by D.C., by prohibiting the Council from reducing the rate applicable to an individual serving as CFO during such individual's service.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 1. Short title

The short title is the “District of Columbia Chief Financial Officer Salary Home Rule Act.”

Section 2. Permitting District of Columbia to establish rate of pay of Chief Financial Officer of District of Columbia

This section provides that the CFO of the District of Columbia shall be paid at the greater of a rate equal to the limit on total pay for an employee described in 5 U.S.C. § 5307(d), or a rate established in law by D.C. If the rate of pay is established by D.C., the rate applicable to an individual serving as CFO may not be reduced during the period of such individual's service.

H.R. 1204 would amend the District of Columbia Home Rule Act to allow the District of Columbia to increase the pay for its chief financial officer (CFO). The salary of the District's CFO is paid with local funds raised by the District of Columbia. On that basis, CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 1204 would have no effect on the federal budget.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Matthew Pickford. The estimate was reviewed by H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Director of Budget Analysis.

ADDITIONAL VIEWS

The Chief Financial Officer (CFO) plays an essential role in managing the District of Columbia's multi-billion-dollar budget and the 1,700 staff responsible for the financial operations of the District. The CFO should be compensated at a competitive rate commensurate with the responsibilities for such a position. Committee on Oversight and Reform Republicans supported the advancement of H.R. 1204 at a June 29th Committee business meeting. The District, which is a recipient of federal grants, but exercises certain autonomous functions under the District of Columbia Home Rule Act, is responsible for managing and addressing its financial challenges. Republicans believe in a strong and efficient Washington, D.C., managed locally and overseen by Congress. Attracting talented officials to help in this mission is made possible by offering competitive compensation. As the CFO position is paid by local, and not federal funds, matters of compensation for the District's executive officials are best handled at a local level rather than dictated by Congress.

However, House Republicans are also rightfully skeptical of any effort by the Democrat majority to advance Home Rule reforms for the District after the repeated attempts by House Democrats to pass unconstitutional, and politically motivated, D.C. statehood legislation in the 116th and 117th Congresses. House Republicans are wise to question the intentions behind H.R. 1204 when the Democrat majority offers no assurances that the District's current CFO role will remain in its current independent structure and not be transformed into a State Treasurer position through the unconstitutional design of H.R. 51, the Washington, D.C. Admission Act. Despite these concerns, the District still requires a competent CFO, which this bill aims to accomplish.
